

74th Annual AVTRW Conference 2020

We are pleased to announce that the 74th Annual AVTRW Conference will go ahead as planned on 14-15th September 2020 as a virtual conference. Oral and poster abstracts are invited.

We particularly encourage early career researchers (including undergraduate students, postgraduate students, interns, clinical residents, and lab technicians) to present their work. The conference provides the ideal opportunity to present research findings, including those of a preliminary nature, in a relaxed supportive environment and to facilitate interaction with other researchers in all aspects of veterinary research.

There are cash prizes for the best poster and oral presentations.

Important date:

- Abstract Submission Deadline: 31st July 2020

The conference has the following main themes, however we welcome abstract submission on any topic of veterinary teaching and research:

- Bringing research to the end-users (impact)
- Teaching the new generation of professionals
- Parasitology
- Surveillance

Those selected for oral and poster presentations will be notified by 15th August 2020 and the final conference programme will be finalised and made available by the end of August.

Further information, including abstract submission and registration details can be found at <http://www.avtrw.co.uk/events/>

Any questions can be addressed to the organisers at glasgow2020@avtrw.co.uk

We look forward to meeting you in September.

Kind regards,

Dr Valentina Busin
AVTRW President
